

Tribal Water Security Colloquium

Rethinking Our Relationship With Water

Date: Tuesday, March 8, 2016

RSVP: Open to the public, but please RSVP at <http://TWSC.rsvpify.com>

Location: wələbʔaltx^w \(Intellectual House\) University of Washington
4249 Whitman Court, Seattle, WA 98195

Schedule:

- 1:20-1:30 Introductions by the Water is Life class and refreshments
- 1:30-1:55 Coal train and coastal waterways. Jewell James (Lummi)
- 2:00-2:25 Importance of reclaiming Medicine Springs. Tony Sanchez (Nisqually)
- 2:30-2:55 Student Poster Presentations and Snack Break
- 3:00-3:25 Ocean acidification. Ed Johnstone (Quinault)
- 3:30-3:55 Climate change and melting glaciers. Micah McCarty (Makah)
- 4:00-4:25 Storytelling and Native teachings. Roger Fernandes (Lower Elwha Klallam)
- 4:30-4:55 Wetlands and fish hatcheries. Terry Williams (Tulalip)
- 5:00-5:30 Community-based participatory research. Bonnie Duran, PhD (Opelousas/Coushatta)

Hosted by UW's Water is Life: Water, Health, and "Ecosystem Services" among American Indians and Alaskan Natives

Co-Sponsored by the Department of American Indian Studies, The UW Campus Sustainability Fund, and The UW Center for Ecogenetics and Environmental Health Community Outreach and Ethics Core

Lights snacks and drinks will be provided

Contact: Clarita Lefthand-Begay at clarita@uw.edu

