Dear Class, (sent on January 17, 2015)

Here is a list of the required reading for class on 1/22. If you are uncertain about a reading assignment, please come to my office hours on Tuesday from 2-3pm (in the AIS Lounge) or email me before class and I will happily provide you with clarification. I have attached pdfs for 3 chapters and papers on climate change, and the link for readings about Hanford. I decreased the required reading from what is listed on the Syllabus, but I will keep the references on the syllabus in case you want to do some extra reading on these topics.

Reminder: On Tuesday 1/20, you have two assignments due at the beginning of class.

- A#4: Provide 3 example citation of an article, book, and video: If you are able, provide citations that are relevant to your class paper's topic. I.e., if you are doing a paper about climate change, your citations could pertain to this topic.
 - For some guidance, visit the UW library website for examples of citations in both APA or MLA format. You can pick the format you wish, since you'll learn the difference between the two at the Writing Center in the upcoming weeks. Go here for examples of APA and MLA examples:
<http://guides.lib.washington.edu/citations>
 - MLA: <http://lgdata.s3-website-us-east-1.amazonaws.com/docs/703/644257/44mla.pdf>
 - APA: <http://lgdata.s3-website-us-east-1.amazonaws.com/docs/703/644255/43APA.pdf>
- A#5: Simple outline of research paper due
 - I have attached a pdf with an example of an outline and some additional resources. Please put your best effort forth for the outline, and note that your outline might change as you begin to develop your topic over the next few weeks. The goal of the outline is to begin to organize your thoughts about the topic you choose to write about for this class. I have also posted the outline on the class website:
